Tornadoes in Wake of Wide Area Many Amendments To Labor Legislation

Sweeping amendments to Alberta's labor legislation were introduced in the legislature Friday.
New legislation will provide penalties for illegal strikes or lockouts.
It will amend the Alberta Labor Act.
Bill was introduced at 10:30 p.m. by Trade and Industry Minister C. E. Gerhart as the house was about to adjourn for the week-end.

Finers for illegal strikes and lockouts will act at a maximum of $50 per day plus up to one dollar per man per day.
All questions about legality of strikes will be referred to Supreme court.
If fines are not paid by unions striking illegally, employer will continue check-off but money will go to government until fines are paid.
Failure of employer to pay will bring a court judgment against him.
Mr. Gerhart said there is nothing in the new legislation which will disturb the right to strike.
This is a right which must be preserved, he declared.
Under terms of the new legislation, no single person may act as a strikebreaker.
AGENTS DEFINED
A bargaining agent is defined as a union or association of employees.
Legislation stipulates of collection of dues by both employer and union.
Each party to agreement must file two copies with department of industries and labor.
Amendments will also make it an offence for employers to refuse to bargain collectively.
Present legislation makes this an offence only if employer is not a union or association of employees.
Employers dismissed under clauses in new legislation will be paid by government for time from dismissal to court action.

United States will be able to draw upon the output of International Petroleum's huge consortium in Peru, Columbia and other South American countries. American credits acquired as a result of the sale will permit Imperial Oil Limited to purchase oil field, pipeline and refinery equipment in United States.

A record crowd of 300,000 defied Britain's transportation difficulties to attend Sheila's Cottage, the twelfth mare ever to win the ancient race, is a half sister of Lively Cottage, the 1946 winner, owned by John Procter and ridden by A. Military Training in Canada?

Now that President Truman's notable address to congress has raised the question of universal military training in the United States and will doubtless result in legislation to implement his appeal, a similar question will probably raise itself in Canada. Canadians should be sufficiently well-informed to consider the issue intelligently.

Two points should be noted in regard to universal military training in this country:

1. Universal military training need not be conscription into the active forces.
2. The training of young men in arms is not necessarily a prudence to war but could be a very potent factor in preventing war.

The Soviet Union has scoffed more than once at the feeble military equipment of the democracies. The knowledge that all over North America sturdy young men were being trained in their physical condition as well as into to worthy bear arms in defense of the country, but to meet the demands of civilian life could very easily alter their plans of aggression.

From a purely civilian standpoint, it is said, universal military training could be made an excellent process for the health of the nation.

During the last war roughly 58 percent of Canadians seeking to enlist in the armed forces were rejected because of physical unfitness. Universal military training might not only improve the physical condition of thousands of young men but would make thousands of others aware of latent ill-health so that incipient disease could be checked.

It is said, too, that a course of military training would add immeasurably to the background knowledge of young Canadians.

There are some of the arguments for universal military training. There are forceful employed arguments against it. Some declare it makes a serious break in the lives of young men, in their educational training and in their chances for employment. Some say it instills in their minds the notion that force is the only cure for international differences. Whether Canadians are for military training or against it, they cannot be apathetic to the principle at this moment. They should be united to deliver an intelligent and thoughtful decision.

Is It Art or Is It Fun?

Robert Stuart, the eminent English actor who has been adjudicating plays in the Dominion Drama Festival, will not endeavor himself to make a play of his performance throughout Canada with his statement:

"There is no room in Canada for the people who are just having a bit of fun out of dramatic circles—they're cheats and completely dishonest."

These are harsh words. And perhaps they are just a little bit fanatic.

For while those serious-minded young people who regard amateur theatricals as a stepping stone to professional work in the theatre undoubtedly advance the cause of art, there is also a great deal to be said for amateur theatricals as a good clean pastime.

As a matter of statistical fact, 90 out of every 100 persons who engage in this form of amusement have no more chance of becoming professional actors than they have of becoming Sultan of Zanzibar. Would Mr. Stuart bar all these persons from the amateur drama? Would he call them all cheats simply because they have no ambition to become Barrymores and Oliviers?

The most difficult thing for the average professional actor to understand is that all people are not clamoring to get into the business and that the stage glimmer that used to beguile most imaginative young people at one time or another has worn pretty thin.

Amateur dramatic efforts can be art or they can be fun. It is much better and more wholesome if they are a bit of both.

Sometimes art can take itself too seriously. And many an amateur production has been ruined by arty young persons who believe they have been called by heaven to inherit the genius of Duse.

The Light of the Christian Cross

It is a remarkable fact of which many are not aware that nearly one-third of the four Gospels is devoted to the story of the death of Christ. It may surprise some who make little of the Cross to confront this fact.

In the histories of Alexander the Great, Napoleon or any other hero, the account of the death is merely an incident. Even the death of St. Paul that tremendous Christian, is not recorded.

But every one of the apostles and writers of the New Testament seems convinced that the Cross is the central symbol of Christianity.

The origin of this symbol comes from the symbol of humanity. What tyrant was it, what monster of cruelty who first conceived the idea of nailing criminals to a tree to prolong their agony?

Until the Crucifixion of Christ, the Cross was an instrument of degradation and horror. It needed a miracle, then, to change a hangman's rope into the symbol of God himself. It took Jesus to change the ignominious symbol of Golgotha, littered with dead men's skulls, into the most hallowed spot in the world.

There are many hills of man's spirit to which he may look when he is weary and disillusioned—the Acropolis, where the grace and beauty of the Parthenon speak of the wit and wisdom of the world. There are the rough red crags of Sinai, where the moral law rings like a trumpet to the conscience of mankind.

But when the soul is sick, we remember that Sinai was no place for anyone else.

Calvary has no place for anyone else. There we can touch our burden and never bring it away.

Too Much Jittery Tak About War Dangers Here

At half the dinner tables in Edmonton last night there was a jittery conversation, covered with a sense of foreboding about the day when the Russians would bomb the daylight out of this ineffective community.

Class equity elicits the fact that some of the most perturbed of the jittery gossips into the future were even working for a month and year when this catastrophe would occur.

Much of this lethal badinage was in the spirit of a clean run. But under all of it was the deadly serious fear that Canada in general and Alberta in particular might become the Belgium of the present phase but of the conflict which is to overtake us.

Gallantly, worried mothers and anxious fathers tried to make a game of the threat. But the current of foreboding is there and very close to the surface.

It is unfortunate that because there is absolutely no substantial ground for such apprehension. The Bulletin haven't got us yet.

Loose Talk

Destroy Morale

Actually there has been far too much loose and thoughtless talk about a disaster that is most unlikely to occur.

That address was made because the Soviet Union has no intention of it isn't fooling anybody.

The Communist technique of aggression is the infiltration of unsuspecting countries. Its chief weapon is the infiltration of the treacherous coup d'etat rather than the more direct and honest assault at arms.

A bluff is always a bluff. It is a pretty good bluff. There is a bluffing heavily. There is a remote chance that she has the atomic bomb because she has the money to place it.

It is difficult, too, to believe that a country so badly hit economically and productively by the recent war could be in a shape to develop the atom bomb. It is a new one.

Edmonton Not

Vital Target

All right, then, suppose war does come.

What would be Russia's objective? Her first aim would be to conquer her gains in Europe and to further European peace. After she has accomplished this, her aim, she is essentially a European nation.

Certainly there is a 50 per cent chance of war since President Truman's bold address to congress that there was before

Meanest Theft Was on Bus

Editor, Bulletin.—Once in a while we see some one steal the crown for the "meanest thief" I think I saw one of the meanest acts in a bus. A lady bought tickets, dropped one in the box and the other in the pocket. While she was opening her purse to pay the fare, the thief stole the ticket and the money. I was shocked.

Filthy Streets And Street Cars

Editor, Bulletin.—I suggest instead of Mayor Alamy's love jobs to men to destroy our lovely streets, let him have some men to work cleaning up streets. They have never been filthy or disgusting since Alamy's been in office here.

The streets here and the filthy street cars are no recommendation to visitors here, both of which are not fit to travel on. That's what folks get for electing an incompetent teacher and president C.P.F.R. to office.

Segregate Adults From Juveniles

Editor, Bulletin.—In the March 12 issue of your newspaper, I happened to read an article which caused me no end of dismay and consternation. The article was entitled "Juvenile Delinquency Curb Seen in Act." In the event that this bill is passed, I understand or rather go on the assumption that youths of 18 years of age will be prohibited from frequenting public halls, etc., without a parent or guardian in tow.

This is one of the most, if not the most, useless bills to come before the legislature in years. I am 18 years of age, and I have Hagana (it means defence) is the official militia of the Jewish Agency, and potentially the future army of a Jewish State. Technically it has been outlawed by the British mandate government. But it exists and operates as a uniformed, armed fighting force, openly, unchallenged.

The League of Nations (it means national organization) exists and operates just as tangibly, but as an underground force. It exists because of its repeated blows at the Jews and the Jewish Agency.

Despite the animosity of these two fighting forces in the battle against the Arabs, there are no far-unreconcilable differences between them on their policy of action toward Britain and the United States. Hagana has a full-time, paid, regular striking force called Palmach, now up to something more than 10,000 fighting strength.

witnessed both the conduct of youths and grown men in these so-called places of degradation.

Believe me, the only detriment to morals of such as I am the presence of these youths in the streets.

One can hardly expect "youths of 18 years" to be the Christians, the young men of the world they are expected to be, when every day, day after day, they witness their own parents among others hurrying themselves to the depths of degradation.

Our own parents' decay of self-restraint, our lack of faith in the Almighty, any number of reasons, except themselves for our behavior.

If we, the youth of the nation, are so awayed by the behavior, the influence of our elders, then the reverence of the nation should be taken into consideration before putting it into practice.

We need designate certain places of recreation for the youths of 18 years, where they can get off the bus.

Lucy (laughs): "Do you think it is wicked to smoke, dear?" Fanny (marries): "No, dear, I'm sure it isn't."

Lucy: "Because my husband doesn't smoke and it is wicked I'm sure he would do it."

"I'm giving notice, mum," said the domestic maid. "I find you don't trust me."

Mr. Mary, you only came two days ago. I gave you the keys to the master's desk, my jewel case and my handbag. I was proud that I trusted you."

"No, 'twasn't, mum, none of the keys fitted."

Burglar: "What are you laughing at?" Householder: "That you came at night without a light to look for money when I can't find any in broad daylight."

"Hello," said the neighbor, "back from your day's shopping? Have any luck?"

"Hather," said Jones proudly, "I got twelve ducks."

"Where were you?" asked the neighbor, nodding approvingly.

"I can't say they were exactly," replied the neighbor, "but I do own them certainly was."

Racial Prejudice Even After Death

As men we are all equal in the presence of death.

—Publius Syrus.

On March 5 at 3 p.m. Frank Crawford, 30 years, born near Edmonton, Alberta, came to his death. He was a feller at the Hotel Empress of the Empress and Paper. The top of a tall helmet which Crawford was wearing broke off and struck him. He was instantly killed.

The body was brought from the camp at the northern tip of Vancouver Island to Vancouver. The widow with the help of friends, began arrangements for the funeral. "Custer replied to the body."

It was her wish that her husband be buried in the beautiful, hillside grounds of the Canadian cemetery. She and her friends hoped the burial would be a pleasant visit by a salesman.

The salesman told Mrs. Crawford that the cemetery was not affiliated with this location. She asked to be shown the hillside in the cemetery. The salesman, with some reluctance, escorted Mrs. Crawford and her friends to this area.

When the party had returned to the cemetery, Mrs. Crawford said that she had been told that the hillside was not affiliated with this location. She asked to be shown the hillside in the cemetery. The salesman, with some reluctance, escorted Mrs. Crawford and her friends to this area.

West Diplomats • Fear 'Bad News'

Unfavorable Developments Seen In Potential "Trouble Spots"

By Alex H. Singleton

LONDON, March 20.—(AP)—Western European diplomats braced themselves today for bad news from any one of three potential "trouble spots" in the Mediterranean—Greece, Turkey and Italy.

Two Turkish military attaches returned home from Ankara Sunday. Hungary was reported to have ordered three of its diplomatic staff home from Budapest. Diplomats here speculated whether the two-way shift had anything to do with the stiffening relations between Turkey and Russia's Italian neighbors and the standing Soviet demands for Turkish border changes and a big hand in the Danubian.

ATTACK EXPECTED

Constantine, Greece, minister of public order, supported United States department reports that an international brigade of seven hundred men is stationed on Greece's northern border. Greek officials said the brigade is being sent to the area where Communist guerrillas plan to attack in Salonika between March 22 and 30.

Temperatures shortened in Italy where political campaigners took full advantage of a holiday to play for the voters' support in critical elections. April 18. Riot squads were called out at a leftist rally in Rome, but fighting was broken up without casualties.

High-ranking British officials in London were reported gravely concerned lest a Communist "blunder" in one of these three places or elsewhere might result in a military uprising or intervention which would give rise to real trouble.

Some Inroad Made Housing Shortage

OTTAWA, March 20.—(CP)—Increased housing building gave the country at least 7,000 new dwellings last year. General Mortgage and Housing Corporation estimated in its annual report issued Friday, "Dwellings" covers self-contained apartments and houses and the report did not estimate number of individual houses.

It noted, however, total of 7,000 was 13,000 above increase in number of families in Canada with result that some inroad was made on overcrowding.

Time taken to erect a house, although shorter than in 1946, was substantially longer than in pre-war years. It then took an average of 45 days to build a house in 1946. In 1946 average was 11 months. Last year, however, it had improved to eight.

Edmontonians will enjoy another mild week-end, according to forecasts from Edmonton weather office.

ACCUSED MURDERER TELLS OF SHIP DEATH

WINCHESTER, Hampshire, England, March 20.—(Reuters)—James Camb, 30-year-old dock stevedore on the Durban Castle, Friday told how he pushed the body of Eileen (Gaye) Gibson through a porthole of her cabin.

Testifying at his trial for murder of the 16-year-old actress, Camb said he went to Miss Gibson's cabin early last Oct. 18, while the liner was en route from South Africa to England.

He talked of a dance that was held that night and eventually they engaged in sexual relations.

Suddenly she heaved as if she was gasping for breath. Camb said, "Her body stiffened and then relaxed completely."

"Her mouth was a little open and there was a faint line of bubbles on the edge of her lips. I felt for heart beats but could not find any."

For 25 minutes he tried to revive Miss Gibson. Then there was a knock at the cabin door. He "panicked" at the thought of being reported at once and pushed her through the porthole of the cabin.

The trial is continuing.

He took last Tuesday but continued for a time his active duties. He was placed at the council table last Friday by L. B. Pearson, under-secretary for external affairs.

Her social consciousness is not studied, cultivated or assumed but springs from a feeling deep within. Her sternest and severest critics could never accuse her of false values. She sees too clearly and directly to deviate from what she considers right and just.

Her tremendous energy and vigorous vitality have not been exaggerated. The spontaneity and speed of her action, her tireless and sustaining powers in performing many tasks.

Her excellent physical condition is greatly responsible and permits her to carry on more than average activities. The long, sweeping, "languid" "b" bars indicate force, determination, enterprise and a stick-to-itiveness.

As one would surmise difficulties and obstacles would not deter her. The angular formation of her letters reveals not only resistance but a strong mental stature and an ability in comprehension.

Patience is not one of her strong traits and her inquisitiveness comes by nature. Here is an intellectual curiosity she would never be contented with a superficial knowledge but must delve into the root of a matter.

Great compassion, feeling, sympathy and generosity are shown in the slant of her writing. It is not difficult to visualize her as an affectionate and loving mother as well as wife. Though so much of her career, she has been too active outside of her home. It would indeed seem a waste and a pity to confine such constructive energy to the limitations of her own family.

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP)—Navy veteran Richard Cox and his family, who took a $12.50 a day room at Waldorf Astoria hotel to publicize their need for an adequate apartment, Friday received a free breakfast and a bill for $87.50.

Breakfast was a gift of Waldorf employees to Mr. and Mrs. Cox and their sons, James, 24, and Richard, 18 months.

Bill was from management for their week's occupancy of hotel room. Cox said he'll send it to the city administration which, he contends, should supply him adequate veteran's housing.

Russia Demands Share of Ships

ROME, March 20.—(AP)—Russia has no intention of renouncing her right to a share of Italy's wartime fleet, an Italian-placed naval source said Friday.

The informant, close to the commission of British, American, French and Russian naval experts meeting here to dispose of the Italian war fleet, said:

"The Soviet policy is to say nothing, do nothing and delay everything until after the election of April 18."

The fleet was divided among Allies by the Italian Peace Treaty. The independent, right-wing newspaper Giornale Della Sera said Thursday Italian Communists had informed Moscow that Russia is preparing to follow the lead of Britain and the United States in renouncing warships given her.

16 Children Die, Natural Deaths?

WINSTON, Calif., March 20.—(AP)—Sixteen children died of natural causes in Marie Clayre's nursing home—where officers report three underdeveloped charges were held virtually captives for years—a juvenile officer quoted the woman today.

Investigator Charles Ling said he was told deaths occurred over a period of 30 years; that 60-year-old Miss Clayre and her companion, her sister, Josephine Villa, 58, operated the home here and in nearby Santa Monica. Miss Clayre said all were certified by doctors.

Fact, officers quoted Miss Villa:

"You, yes, some of our children died but I don't remember how many. Those that died we gave them Christian burial."

The women are held in default of a court order for their arrest in human treatment of a juvenile and false imprisonment.

USC Major and Minor Notes

By H. D. S.

With last week's splendid performance of Ellish and announcement today of the presentation of a Good Friday cantata symbolizing of Easter is being given musical expression by Edmonton groups.

Mauder's "Olive to Calvary" will be sung by choir of Centralia.

Chorus at 8 p.m. on March 20 (Good Friday). The cantata tells, in dramatic musical form, the story of the crucifixion, from the arrest of Jesus up to the Crucifixion, the Crucifixion itself and ends on a triumphant note of victory over death. It is one of those works whose spirit is in keeping with the significance of scriptural events portrayed that yearly repetition seems to make it appeal the more profound.

Soloists will be Midge Foster, soprano; William Smith, tenor; Kenneth Taylor, baritone and Edward Camp, bass. Organist will be Dorothy O'Leary and director is Leon and Betty.

Woodward's Choral Society presents its third annual concert. Maxine Temple, March 30 and three artists will be Randall Stevens, eminent British baritone now residing in Edmonton and Arthur Williams, boy soprano, son of one of the society's members.

RCAP Band Festival will also contribute selections. Band is under direction of W. Carl Friberg and will appear through kind permission of Air Vice-Marshal Guthrie, CBE. It consists of flutes, three clarinets, French horn and string bass. Players are LAC Horn, LAC bugles, Cpl. Davies, LAC Nixon, LAC Crimmon and LAC Geres.

The choral group was organized in 1945. It has now about 60 members. Progress has been made in interpreting the more difficult works for mixed choral groups. This year the program will cover the period from Teichmüller and

TODAY'S MESSAGE

Escapists and Religion

Life is hard for most people. Countless millions throughout the world live in dire want. Even in this country which enjoys the highest living standards of any country, great numbers of people complain of their unhappiness, frustration, and misery. It is hardly any wonder, then, that many seek ways of escape from the burdens and hardships of daily existence.

Alcoholism is undoubtedly the most tragic manifestation of escapism, involving gradual self-destruction and causing incalculable heartache and misery to those who watch helplessly as some loved one literally dies before their eyes. Other less obvious forms of escapism are revealed by those who crave constant excitement, who become irrationally addicted to sports, read all the latest novels, or ride a merry-go-round of parties, movies and theatres that seems to ease their sense of frustration and boredom but gets them nowhere.

The escapist is like the ever-restless tiger in the zoo, always balking his head against strong iron bars in his conscious, or unconscious, desire to break through. He is a man who has forgotten, or perhaps has never known, that life is not a matter of running away from something but of living for something. The difference between the escapist and the true Christian is that the one is haunted by fear and despair, while the other knows that no cage can hold the human spirit in bondage.

Only the vision of God and the realization of His intimate understanding and love can ever free the escapist from his unhappiness and discontent. Religion inspires men not to know God but to become united with Him in confidence and trust. Above all, it exhorts them to dedicate themselves to the service of God and their fellows. No man who responds to such counsels will ever become an escapist, since, in its ultimate form, religion is simply a refusal to accept life on God's terms, or to view it through the eyes of sound Christian philosophy.

CALGARY, March 20.—(CP)—Officials of the Calgary Stampede were among the large number of friends and relatives who attended funeral services Thursday for J. M. (Jack) Dillon, 65, prominent Alberta cattleman and oilman, who died in hospital Monday following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Dillon was director of the Calgary Arena for 20 years and was one of Alberta's leading oilmen. He held a large interest in several companies operating in the new Leduc oil field near Edmonton. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery in Calgary.

Top Class Service Miller's Keynote

"Pop" Miller Realizes Long Sought Ambition

Wallace Miller, president of Miller Motor Co. Ltd. has realized a long-cherished ambition in opening of modern new garage and used car sales headquarters at 10049 104 street.

Primary purpose of new garage is to provide high class service to Edmonton and district owners of Packard cars for which Miller Motor Co. Ltd. is Edmonton and north Alberta dealer.

NO NEW CARS

Because of Canada's dollar-saving program, however, handsome new showrooms will be used temporarily to display high grade used cars.

"We hope to get some new Packards this spring but it is unlikely many will be available for Edmonton purchasers until Canada's austerity program relaxes," Mr. Miller said.

Used cars handled by Miller Motor Co. will be only the best in fully reconditioned equipment, president Miller stated. He plans to leave soon on a tour of district to select a high class line of used cars for sale in new Edmonton garage.

FIREPROOF STRUCTURE

Opposite No. 2 firehall, new garage and showroom is a fully modern fireproof building of solid brick and stucco construction. Original location of garage and showroom, near Memorial Hall, has been taken over completely by Yellow Cab Ltd., also operated by Mr. Miller.

Expansion of Miller Motor Co. Ltd. has been steady in past few years. Prior to Second World War Mr. Miller operated a tactical business on Jasper Avenue. Soon after start of the last war opening of large RCAF training establishments in Edmonton airport area brought a transportation problem. Thousands of civilian workers at Aircraft Repair and United States establishments here had no means of getting to work.

BUS COMPANY

Mr. Miller purchased a number of large buses and was granted a

WALLACE S. MILLER
President and General Manager

franchise for public transportation between downtown Edmonton and airport area.

This business grew to such proportions that new building was needed for housing buses and servicing public transportation vehicles.

RAPID GROWTH

Some time later Mr. Miller purchased Yellow Cab Ltd., operated for years by late John McNeill and sons.

Later Mr. Miller obtained agency here for Packard motor cars. Again growth of business called urgently for expansion. After long delay incidental to shortages of materials and labor new building on 104 street was erected.

Mr. Miller looks upon his latest expansion as further evidence of Edmonton's growing importance. He doesn't think it will be very long before Miller Motor Co. Ltd. requires even more space to keep pace with Edmonton's expansion.

Charges Against Wray Withdrawn

Business Agent Apologizes For Cafe Picketing Incident

CALGARY, March 20.—(CP)—All charges against Gordon Wray, Calgary business agent of Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Union, and 11 other persons charged in connection with picketing of Commodore Cafe were withdrawn in police court Friday after Wray's written apology for incident was read to court.

Wray and seven others were charged with intimidation and disobeying a court order. Four had been charged with picketing only. Most of them were waitresses on strike in protest against dismissal of an employee.

An injunction prohibiting picketing was ignored and they were arrested last week. In court, Douglas McMeel, representing Harold Riley, counsel for the Commodore Cafe, read the following letter which was directed to Mr. Riley from Mr. Wray.

"As you know the cause of the grievance by the girls in the Commodore Cafe, there is no need of going into this matter now. As agent for the hotel and restaurant employees I should have taken proper care outlined in our agreement."

Bidding Spirited At Sale of Bulls

CALGARY, March 20.—(CP)—Determined bidding by several United States cattlemen and a willingness by Alberta ranchers to pay high prices for good bulls brought spirited bidding at the Calgary bull sale Thursday with the average price reaching $251 a head—49 short of the $300 a head average of the 1947 sale.

A total of $274,000 has been paid for 535 Hereford bulls sold Wednesday and Thursday. An additional 60 Hereford bulls will be sold today together with 190 short-horns.

W. J. Edgar of Innisfail, who had the reserve Hereford champion of the sale, paid $250 to Louisbourg Brothers of Bowden, Alta. for Brault 3509, 2½ bull which placed third in its class. This was $100 more than was paid for the grand champion Wednesday.

United States buyers paid an average price of $235 for 29 bulls.

Your Radio Review

BY DON FLACH
 This Lenten week, in line with your programming to include "radio fare that is unusual and significant"—stimulating and creative, the CBC has taken a bold step on progressive programming.

CBC Wednesday night, is undertaking to present Jack's St. Martin's Passion in its entirety—a program that will occupy three hours of work time. This work has not previously been performed in the musical repertoire and it takes on a compelling expression of religious devotion in the whole of the musical, and it takes on a particular significance in this—

Participating in the program will be Toronto Mendelssohn Choir of 200 voices, Toronto Symphony Orchestra, both under the direction of Sir Ernest MacMillan, a pipe organ, and four soloists.

The Passion will be presented over CBC (580 K.C.) from 8 to 12 Wednesday, March 26. It will be preceded by a short dramatic episode on the work, followed by a commentary by Thomas Archer, editor of the Montreal Gazette.

Attraction for most die-hard throughout this area will be the broadcasts of the same in the WCHL plays as tension in the series continues to mount.

Two local stations, CFRN and CKUA, will be carrying play-by-play accounts of the games direct from rinkside, while CJCA will release actors as receivers.

Considerable listener reaction is being noted in response to "Voice of Radio," a three-minute short heard nightly (10:15, CJCA) in which radio tries to sell itself.

The radio industry, so the sponsors of "Voice of Radio," say, "became we just haven't told our listeners enough about ourselves."

At this point the question can be raised, "Is this criticism the result of a lack of telling, or could this criticism, so the sponsors of "Voice of Radio," say, "became we just haven't told our listeners enough about ourselves."

Guide to Home Builders

THE VICTOR—In the Victor, we present a house that offers what is practically the irreducible minimum in accommodations, four good, livable rooms and bath. But what rooms! And what a plan! And how beautifully the architect has developed the exterior! Its lines are so balanced, its whole appearance as attractive as you might expect to find in homes costing twice as much.

The Victor is one of the two minimum houses pictured this month and it is certainly an outstanding one. It boasts an open fireplace. The kitchen has a built-in dinette, a great convenience in the house without a separate dining room. There is a partial basement that would permit the installation of a "pipelined" furnace, the cheapest form of central heat.

Views Conflict at Investigation Of Recent Butter Prices Jump

By John LaBanc
OTTAWA, March 20.—(CP)—Conflicting views on the responsibility of Canada Packers, Ltd., for the recent jump in butter prices developed Friday before Commons price committee.

Two company executives said the firm had no part in sending prices up, but a committee member expressed the view it had "led" the market.

John Pinard, (L—Chamby—Stouffville) gave this opinion as Arthur Child of Toronto, packers' assistant treasurer, declared his company had not "raised" its prices after making a substantial profit in December. Child said the company had just "followed the market."

CLAIMS MARKET LED

"I'm inclined to think you led it," Pinard declared.

Later, Ford Wiggins of Toronto, head of Canada Packers' produce department, also said the company took no hand in the upsurge of butter prices through the latter half of last year.

Wiggins said Canada Packers had bought the bulk of its storage butter for the 1947-48 season before the market started going up. At the time of the rise, the company was reducing its stocks.

Wiggins also told committee his company did not sell to speculators, those buying had been suggested in earlier evidence as a contributing cause for higher prices.

From the produce head also the committee heard that Canada Pack-

BRITISH MALES TO SPORT OWN EASTER BONNETS

LONDON, March 20.—(CP)—Folk hats in delicate pastel tones—baby pink, eggshell blue, pale gold, lilac, yellow and light sage green—are being shown in shop windows along Piccadilly and The Strand.

They aren't Easter bonnets for women—they're fad hats for men.

One haberdasher explained: "Of course they aren't sold for everyday wear, but for best week-end wear with sport suits."

The shop had already sold three: One red, one pink and one green.

Most West End shops report the best customers for the male millinery come from the middle-age group.

Any of its "unprecedented" butter profits of the last 11 months.

"Eventually, there will be a drop in price, but the case will last a long time," he said.

LOOT IS RECOVERED BY POLICE

Big Bond, Jewel Robbery In B.C. Now Solved

VANCOUVER, March 20.—(CP)—One of British Columbia's biggest robberies—theft of $80,000 in bonds and jewelry—has been solved.

Police recovered $77,000 worth of bonds and jewelry in a house here Thursday night, and it was indicated in court Friday the whereabouts of the thieves is known.

Recovered loot was stolen from safety deposit boxes in the offices of Whillans and Gadsden Ltd., brokers and realtors, at Kelowna, B.C. June 25, 1947. Robbers had gained entrance through a hole cut in a wall.

All the loot has been accounted for. In December, police located $5,000 worth in the room of Peter McIsaac, 42, and Frank S. Whyte, 33, and a weird story was told of how it came into their possession.

McIsaac claimed he was keeping the bonds for a man named John McDonald, who "never returned."

Both were charged with possession of stolen property, but were acquitted in police court Friday.

"There is no suggestion that either McIsaac or Whyte had been responsible for the theft," said City Prosecutor Stewart McMoran. "It is believed that the persons responsible are not available at present."

It was reported that two men held responsible for the robbery are now serving penitentiary terms for other crimes. Police, however, refused comment.

Canada Supplies Bulk of Imports

LONDON, March 20.—(CP)—Canada has supplied 628,000 hundredweight of Britain's total wheat imports of 11,750,000 in the first five months of 1948. Board of Trade figures showed Friday.

Despite British efforts to purchase additional food and grain supplies in sterling or soft currency countries, the domination remained the chief supplier. Total of all grain and four imports was 28,000,000 hundredweight of which Canada's share was more than 11,000,000.

THE GANGSTER

THE Teenie Weenies hadn't seen Skippy, the chipmunk, for some days. Nick, the red squirrel, stayed close to his home tree and even the Rhyming Rabbit had remained in his hole for the past week. The respectable mice and Ginky had completely disappeared. This rather alarmed the Teenie Weenies because they knew that when the small animals kept out of sight there was bound to be a weasel in the neighborhood, for little animals are terribly afraid of weasels.

Although weasels are small creatures, they are very fierce and will attack animals much larger than themselves. They have needle-like teeth and they move with great speed. None of the Teenie Weenies had seen the weasel, but Tilly Titter, the English sparrow, brought news of the beast. Four chickens had been destroyed, a young black rabbit was missing and a family of mice, distant relations of Ginky, had been done away with.

The Teenie Weenies kept a close watch for "The Gangster," as they had named the weasel, but none of the little people had seen the beast. None of them went out at night until one evening Gogo and the Policeman ventured out to visit the Chinaman, who lives in a discarded teapot and keeps the Teenie Weenie laundry. The Policeman particularly likes the little cakes the Chinaman bakes, and Gogo said he was not afraid with a brave officer.

The Chinaman was finishing the last of his ironing when Gogo and the Policeman arrived. He quickly cleared off the table on which he had done his ironing, brought out a tiny teapot and put it on his stove. He brought out several little cups made of hollow reed stems and an acorn shell dish of freshly baked rice cookies.

THE TEENIE WEENIES

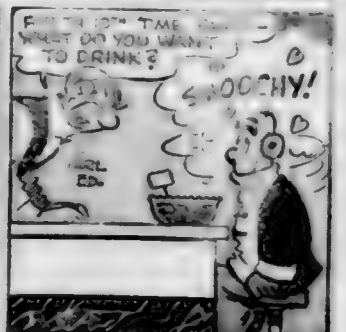

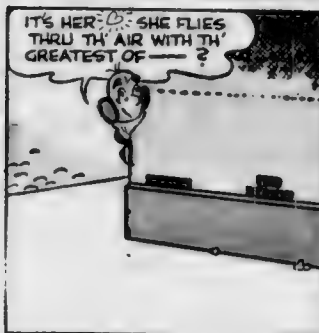

BY WM. DONAHUE

Gogo and the Policeman had pulled their tiny chairs up to the table and the Chinaman had just reached for the teapot when the door burst open and the head of a weasel glared through the opening. The three Teenie Weenies stared in horror at the snarling beast, for there was no way of escape and three unarmed Teenie Weenies were no match for such a vicious animal.

The Chinaman suddenly snatched the teapot from the stove and threw it with all his might at the head of the weasel. When the hot water poured over the beast it let out a snarl and disappeared into the night. Nothing more has been seen of the weasel in the neighborhood of the Teenie Weenie village and it is quite likely that it will not venture into the neighborhood again.
